11-12.)

“Developing & Piloting Adolescent Concussions/Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI) Surveillance System in NJ to Inform School-Based Educational Trainings and the Prevention of Repeated TBI.” (1st round funding)

“Sustaining an Adolescent Concussions/Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI) Surveillance System in NJ to Inform School-Based Educational Trainings Conducted to Assist the Prevention of Repeated TBI” (2nd round funding)

P.I.: Derek G. Shendell, D.Env, MPH

Funded by Kessler Foundation Special Projects/Programs Award mechanism

First round of funding awarded for 1/1/2015- 3/31/2016 (notice of award 12/12/2014), $20,000 including fringe benefits and indirect costs (10% cap) and a 5% Rutgers Foundation gift fee.

Second round of funding for fall 2016-winter 2018 awarded for 1/1/2017-12/31/2017 (notice of award fall 2016) $20,000 including fringe benefits and indirect costs (10% cap) and a 5% Rutgers Foundation gift fee.

This is a pilot project with school and non-profit based partners (e.g., Brain Injury Alliance of NJ) to expand our current NJ SS young worker incident (injury/illness) surveillance program, codified in State of NJ law and now administered exclusively online as of fall, 2013. This expanded program would cover incidents and injuries among adolescents, i.e., students in secondary public and non-public schools in NJ, during both physical education (PE) classes and extracurricular sports, including practices, weight training and games/competitions. This is an opportunity we have only in NJ, to improve the reporting of--and thus prevention of repeated--sports-related concussions/TBI in high school students. With further improved incident/injury surveillance, these data can then inform educational programs at schools for coaches, athletic trainers, teachers and students. Moreover, by preventing repeated concussions, and allowing for proper physical and mental rest after a TBI, adolescents will be more likely to return to practice and competition safely. More importantly, this will allow them to attend and participate in their courses, extracurricular enrichment activities, part-time work experiences year-round or during holiday periods and, achieve future goals as young adults like continuing their education, participating in meaningful work, and contributing to their communities. Note: Funding noted above excludes in-kind match (1-2x $).

13.) “Global Urbanism & Youth/Young Adults: Built Environment & Social Factors Affect Public Health & Worker Safety“

PI: Derek G. Shendell, D.Env, MPH (Co-I are Drs. Patricia Findlay, Mark Robson and Maryann Sorenson Allacci of Schools of Social Work, SEBS and E.J. Bloustein/Center for Green Buildings, respectively).

Funding awarded via competitive peer-review process through Rutgers Global Advancement and International Affairs Centers “Global Urbanism 2015-17” Program/Initiative across entire University. Time frame-total project budget: (direct costs only) July 1, 2015-April 30, 2017; $12,000, as $10,000 plus another $1,000 per year via annual mini-grant program (automatically awarded, formal proposal approved)

This project's working group's focus in global urbanism intersects four key issues in modern society:

- i.) Rapidly increasing urbanization in less developed countries (LDCs);
- ii.) Evidence of negative effects of exposure to environmental pollution, i.e. risks to safety & health (S&H);
- iii.) Child labor--legal or illegal, in agricultural and non-agricultural work, increasing S&H risks;
- iv.) Reintroduction of child soldiers from rural areas of LDCs into communities/schools in urban settings.

This proposal directly explores cross-cutting themes including global-local interconnections; and, urban form, public space and (sub-) urban landscapes. Dictionaries consistently define urbanism as the interaction of inhabitants of towns and cities—or urban communities—with the built environment and the study of their physical needs, i.e., urban planning. Our goal/objective is to assess, better describe, and expand the capacity to address the S&H risks to younger residents of urban areas—adolescents and young adults up to age 34—who live, shop, work, learn, play (physical activity), and/or be entertained for different reasons, whether by personal choice or due to external forces (social stressors).
